Students urged to vote on Student Council constitution

Keith Blackford
STUCO SOURCE

Constitutional amendments for the UMR Student Council, the representative body of the students of UMR, will be put to a campus-wide vote this month. Voting will take place from Wednesday, February 1 through Wednesday, February 15. Several methods of voting will be available to students. There will be polling places in the Student Activities area of UCW, Rayl Cafeteria, and TJ Cafeteria, with other locations possible. There will also be a method to vote by E-mail, which will be sent to all students sometime during the voting period.

It is vital that students vote on these constitutional amendments! The vote required for ratification of these amendments is that 25% of the Student Body must vote, and of this 25%, 2/3 must approve these amendments for them to pass. That might not seem like many, but that adds up to over 1200 students voting, with over 800 voting to approve. There will be processes in place to assure that each person votes only once, so that means that more than 1200 students need to cast a ballot. Any undergraduate or graduate student is eligible to vote.

The Constitution that will be voted on is the product of a process that started last semester. A committee of approximately 20 interested students was formed last semester to examine the current Constitution and propose changes. The committee came up with a document that was then amended and approved by Student Council. Now this amended document must be ratified by the Student Body. A copy of the proposed Constitution, as amended, was printed in last week's Miner, and is printed again this week. A copy will also be available on gopher under Departments/Student_Council/Bylaws_and_Constitution(13/19/2), and there will be copies posted on various bulletin boards.

The principle changes in this Constitution from the previous one are as follows: The President of the Student Body will now be elected by all students (Article VI, Section 2); there will be changes in how an organization acquires a vote (Article IV, Section 3); the Member-at-Large position will be created (Article IV, Section 3); the duties of officers will be changed. (Article VI, Section 8); and a quorum will be redefined as 1/2 instead of 2/3 (Article VIII, Section 3).

Changes in these Constitutional amendments will definitely have an impact on you! If you have questions about how the proposed changes could affect you, or about the process of voting, or about anything at all regarding the Constitution, don't hesitate to call the Student Council office at 341-4280 or E-mail stuco@umr.edu.

Students organize chess tournament

Paul Otto
Asst. News Ed.

This January, Josh Skaggs, a student, decided to bring some culture back to UMR. After hearing about interest in a chess tournament from several students, he decided to organize the UMR Chess Championship. Several fliers later, twenty-two students signed up for five days of chess dueling. The players played for the right to claim chess superiority on campus.

The rules of this week long tournament were based on a five round Swiss Tournament with no clocks being used. Clocks were decided against based on the belief that "time shouldn't be an issue in chess." Although official time was not recorded the best games did last around two hours.

While the event was new the players were not—many having played since early childhood—which made the competition fierce. It is interesting to note that the University used to have a chess club, but it folded several years ago, leaving many skillful players unable to sharpen their talents.

The final games were played last Friday with Dimitri Hautot placing first after winning all five games. Tied for second place were Bugra Cankaya and Boston Gabriel, and Jeff Randick, Jeff Schroder and Chris Mayberry tied for fourth.

The tournament was declared a success by all involved, and another is in the planning stages. Anyone who is interested in future tournaments may E-mail jskaggs@umr.edu.

Career Opportunities Center urges students to update resumes

If they have not already done so, all students who were registered last semester with the Career Opportunities Center—for summer, co-op or permanent employment—need to update their application or resume disc and bring it into to COC to be loaded into the databank right away. Students also need to notify the registrar's office to send a new transcript to the COC that includes last semester's grades.

All students are blocked on the system until their updated discs are brought in to be loaded. All those who are still blocked will not be considered for this semester's on-campus interviews or resume referrals to companies. GPA, course load, and address must all be current, including any additional changes in work experience or activities.

The second interview skills seminar on effective techniques will be held tomorrow night; Thursday, February 2, at 6:30 p.m. in the Meramec Room, UC-East.

The OPPORTUNITIES FOR UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH EXPERIENCE program is conducted annually to provide an active form of learning for UMR undergraduates through participation in "research" as an undergraduate student. The program is open to students in any discipline. All full time undergraduate students with a cumulative GPA greater than 2.50 are eligible. If you are interested in participating, you should see your department coordinator. Your coordinator has listings of possible projects and can recommend faculty who conduct research which includes undergraduates. You and your faculty sponsor need to discuss the potential project, come to an agreement, and submit a one page application to the office of the Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs, 204 Parker Hall. The deadline for submitting your application is March 3, 1995.

Projects may provide academic credit (typically 3-6 hours of 300 or 390 credit) and/or payment of a stipend to a limit of $1000. One-half of the stipend is paid at the beginning of the project and the remainder when a final report, approved by the cooperating faculty member, is submitted. Up to $500 is made available for expendable supplies.

Coach unfairly dismissed

I think that it is really sad when an athletic coach attempts to run a disciplined program and is punished for it while other coaches lack control of their teams and are commended for it. I understand that this university is more concerned about the academics of its students and making sure that students will remain here. However, they fail to understand that students do not attend this university to play a varsity sport. Most of the time it is the academic program that draws them here. Athletics provide a release from the intense studying done for classes. However, if students are going to handle the rigorous academic load, they should be accustomed to a disciplined and well-run program. It is human nature to become upset or angered when things do not go our way. But face it, that's life. If one cannot learn to deal with a situation where you are in contact with and have to work with someone who completely conflicts with your personality, you will never make it in the real world. Isn't that what we are trying to accomplish here at UMR?-- to prepare ourselves for the real world. It isn't that easy to just "get rid of" those people with whom one does not see eye to eye. A coach has a responsibility to his team to give them the opportunity to grow from their experiences on the playing field. I understand that many people feel that since they are in college now and away from home that they do not need someone watching over their shoulder at all times. I too have felt this way. But once one makes the decision to play a varsity sport at any university, it is a commitment that deserves one's complete and entire heart and soul. This article is not about athletes going out and partying the night before an event, it's about those individuals who cannot deal with the way one person decided to do his job. And if putting your entire life and time into making a program the best that it can be is wrong, then I guess I just might be at the wrong school. The athletic department wants to make itself look so caring for its athletes, yet refuses to listen to what they have to say. This does not make sense. It should not have to be about extremes one way or another. Athletes need to be able to trust the people they are working with including all coaches and the athletic department. I'm not trying to say that everything about the athletic programs at UMR is bad. I am just extremely disappointed in the ways they attempt to deal with things. And it is really sad that the last people to find out about a coach's dismissal is the team which plays for him.

Miner Basketball Needs Remedy For Mid-Season Slump

Carl James
Staff Writer

It was another disappointing week for the Miners in the MIAA with losses at Central Missouri State and at home to Missouri Southern. The mid week loss at Central Missouri State marked the third game in row the Miners played without center-forwards, 6-9 junior Jamie Brueggeman, and 6-7 sophomore Jeff Kokal. Both were out with stress fractures. With no big men to post-up or rebound, the Miners virtually had no inside game that could compete with the level of play the MIAA provides.

On Wednesday night the Miners were looking to end a very long MIAA road losing streak against the Mules of Central Missouri State. The Mules got off to a quick eight point lead before the Miners rallied back to tie the game at 14. It remained a neck and neck game until around the 7 minute mark when the Mules got on a rampage and left the floor for halftime with a 17 point lead.

During the remainder of the game the margin didn't change much as the Miners stuck with the Mules but were never able to seriously cut into the lead and eventually dropped the game 94-78. The Miners did a good job of out rebounding Central Missouri without Brueggeman or Kokal. UMR's shooting percentage of 39, however, left much to be desired. The Mules on the other hand shot 60%, and that's what made the final difference on the scoreboard.

Things were starting to look up before the tip-off to Saturday night's game with Missouri Southern. Kokal had finally recovered and was suited up for play, although he did not start. Due to three weeks off the court, Kokal didn't see much first half action and it became clear early on that it would be another painful defeat for the Miners. After the first 5:23, the Miners were down to Missouri Southern's Lions 20-10. As the game moved along it was obvious that the first half belonged to Lion stand-out, Terrance Sisson. Sisson entered the week with an average of 22.5 points per game, a mark he past in the first half with 28 of his total 37 points against UMR. By the end of the first half the score was 55-35 Lions.

The second half started with another run by the Lions that quickly stretched the lead to 30 shortly after 3 minutes. Kokal started becoming a factor in the second half scoring 12 of his 14 points and pulling down 3 of his 4 rebounds. The late Miner rally got the UMR crowd excited towards the end of the game, but the deficit was too large and the Miner's lost the game 95-77.

This time the Miners were beat inside. Missouri Southern managed to pull down 54 total rebounds, 17 offensive. The Miners managed only 31 total, 13 offensive. With several multiple shot opportunities the Lions were able to dominate in the first 5 minutes of the second half to pull away from the Miners. Add to that a 35% shooting effort from UMR, and a dismal result was inevitable.

UMR was forced to play an outside game and scored 30 of its 77 points from three point range.

Miner Tim Holloway hit 5 three-pointers to lead UMR in scoring with 23 points. Holloway was almost matched with four shots from three-point land by Miner Ryan Wade.

It is obvious the Miners are still hurting without the play of Brueggeman. The Miner's lack of rebounding in the MIAA has left them with a league record of 1-7. The Miners still have some important MIAA match-ups ahead, including games next week at Emporia State and Lincoln. The Miner's next home game will be Wednesday, February 8 against Northeast Missouri State. UMR is hoping that things will brighten up in the near future.

Tough Last Week Leaves Lady Miner Basketball at .500 Record

Derek Dabrowski
Staff Writer

It may have been a long week for the Lady Miners basketball team with two tough losses in the MIAA conference on the road at Central Missouri State, and at home against Missouri Southern State. The Lady Miners suffered a heartbreaking loss to the Central Missouri State Jennies on Jan. 25, despite clutch efforts by 5-5 freshman guard, Becky Reichard, and 6-2 sophomore, forward-center, Heather Hartman, and simply ran out of steam in the second half against the Missouri Southern State Lady Lions on Jan. 28. The two losses pushed the Lady Miners down to .500 at 9-9.

On Wednesday night the Lady Miners looked toward an upset of dominating Central Missouri State, but CMS just proved too tough on the boards not allowing the Lady Miners to a single offensive rebound in the first half. The Lady Miners stayed on the heels of the Jennies in the first half, however, largely in part to both teams shooting poorly from the field, and at the end of the half it was the Jennies on top 30-28.

The second half was much of the same with the lead going back and forth between the two teams and things even started to look dismal for the Lady Miners with the Jennies going on a 6-0 run with 4:20 left in the game to put them on top 58-49, but that's when the Lady Miners showed real character. Led by Hartman, 14 points and 4 blocked shots, and Reichard, 15 points, the Lady Miners charged back with an 8-0 run to put the score at 58-57 with 54 seconds left in the game. The Lady Miners even had a chance to tie the game, but a missed free throw with 7 seconds left proved to be all for the Lady Miners.

Poor free throw shooting and offensive rebounding led to the demise of the Lady Miners in this nail biter. The Lady Miners made only 8 of 17 free throws in the game compared to 18 of 24 made by the Jennies. Combine that with being outrebounded 16-7 on the offensive boards, a losing result seemed certain.

Ryan Shawgo

Lady Miner Hoopster #33 Jen Arnason shoots from the charity stripe during the Lady Miners loss to Missouri Southern. The Lady Miners dropped to a record of 9-9 overall and 3-5 in the MIAA.

The Lady Miners knew things were not going to be any easier against the Missouri Southern State Lady Lions on Saturday night. The Lady Lions had a 5 game winning streak against the Lady Miners including a playoff win in the first round of the MIAA post season tournament last season. So the Lady Miners had revenge on their minds when the game started and both teams came out on fire from the get go.

The two teams were running neck to neck in almost every category in the first half and the game looked to be a high scoring shooters duel with both teams shooting close to 50% from the court as the first half score was 43-41 Lady Miners. The scoring onslaught by the Lady Miners in the first half was led again by Reichard with 14 points, and by 5-10 senior forward, Katherine Kersten with 10 points. The Lady Miners also had a .750 shooting percentage from the free throw line in the half.

The Lady Miners came out sluggish in the second half, however, not passing or shooting well, and were consistently getting beat down the floor and on the post. The Lady Miners shot only .250 from the field and had 15 turnovers alone in the second half. The Lady Lions opened up the half going on a 11-0 run that gave them a seven point lead at 54-47, and the Lady Miners could never recover.

The Lady Lions went on another 7-0 run to put them ahead 67-54 with 7 minutes left in the game and that was just to much of a deficit to recover from. The Lady Miners were outscored 38-23 in the second half and the final score was 79-66 as the Lady Miners dropped their second conference loss in three days.

Statistical leaders for the Miners were Reichard who had a game high 25 points, and Kersten, who had 14 points along with 13 rebounds. Christie Williams, 5-7 junior guard, added 11 points.

The Lady Miners look to improve on their conference, and overall record, along with getting back in the post season hunt, with their remaining eight games all being conference games. The Lady Miners play Emporia State on Feb. 1, and Lincoln on Feb. 4, both on the road. Then the Lady Miners come back home against Northeast Missouri State on Feb. 8.

Keenan Shaking Blues Up In "The House That Mike Built"

Mark Lewandoski
Staff Writer

The ice is still soft, the boards give a funny bounce to the puck, but yet every hockey player knows that every hockey arena - new or old - must have a doghouse. Two players wearing the bluenote seem to be in "Iron" Mike Keenan's doghouse. These two players each had above par seasons last year but are having trouble adjusting to the Keenan system: "Work hard or no ice time." It doesn't matter who you are, Keenan has bench superstars before, ie. Jeremy Roenick when Keenan was coach of the Chicago Blackhawks and Mark Messier last year as coach of the Stanley Cup Champion New York Rangers. The two players catching the sneer of Keenan this year are Craig Janney, the number one center and best playmaker, and backup goalie Jon Casey.

Jon Casey, 32 was acquired last June as a free agent from the Boston Bruins. For Boston last year, he was 30-15-9 with a 2.88 goals against average. He was picked up to give starting goalie Curtis "Cujo" Joseph some relief. Casey got his first start for the Blues Saturday night versus the Vancouver Canucks due to a strained groin muscle Curtis Joseph received in the home opener against the Los Angeles Kings. Casey looked sluggish in goal from the start giving up two goals in 28 minutes. The second goal even the editor of the Missouri Miner, Christopher Goo, could of stopped. This was enough for Keenan and Casey was pulled in favor of third stringer Geoff Sarjent. Sarjent, one of the best goalies in the IHL last season, played well in the final thirty-two minutes giving up only one goal and that was to superstar Pavel Bure on a breakaway. The Blues lost the game 3-1 and moved their record to 3-2.

Craig Janney at the arms of Mike Keenan came as a surprise to many. At the beginning of the year every Blues fan kept wondering how will Brett Hull mix with Keenan. No one thought that quiet and reserved Janney would be benched for two successive games.

Keenan has suggested that the roster is three-fourths set for the season. Could this mean that the Blues only playmaking center is on the trading block? Rumors have it that Vancouver's Murray Craven or Washington's Joe Juneau might be available. Personally, Craven is not in the same category as Janney and shouldn't even be considered. Juneau is not filling a playmaker role for Washington now and leads the team in scoring. I believe it would be a mistake to trade Janney because he is part of the nucleus at the beginning of the season the Blues wanted to build around. Over half the team was not wearing blue last year. Also Janney had 68 assists, 106 points the year before, and always will light up the red light at least twenty times a year. In the two games he has watched from the pressbox, the Blues powerplay has struggled seeming to lack direction. The first three games with Janney in the lineup, the powerplay was among the top in the league with a success ratio around 26%. In the two games where Janney watched, the Blues have only scored once out of twelve man-advantage situations.

Maybe this is just a wakeup call to Casey and Janney. Last year Keenan did the same thing with Sergei Zubov when he coached the Rangers. He sent Zubov to the minors for a stint and Zubov returned to be one of the top defenseman in the league finishing with around 85 points.

Iron Mike might know what he is doing, but after Adam Creighton slows down Brett Hull will need someone to feed him and the Blues already took away one more playmaking center from him (Adam Oates), don't make it two.

The year is going but the new talent around the league is promising. The shortened season will make for many tight races. We will wait and see who

Good Finishes By Tracksters

Kirk Jordan

The University of Missouri-Rolla men's and women's track teams traveled to Fayetteville, Ark., this past weekend to take part in the Razorback Invitational. Kim Finke (Montgomery City, Mo.) made an impressive showing for the women's team finishing fourth in the high jump leaping five feet and 4.5 inches. Sabine Krieger from Southern Methodist University finished first with a jump of six feet. Jennifer Frazier (Mexico, Mo.) earned a sixth place finish in the 5000 meters with a time of 19:06.11. Tracy Jones (Rolla, Mo.) contributed an eleventh place finish in the 400 meters with a time of 1:02.67.

On the men's side, Ben Mulvaney (Jackson, Tenn.) earned an eighth place finish with his time of 16:01.70 in the 5000 meter run. Bob Etien (Fort Wayne, Ind.) and Ryan Unterreiner (St. Louis, Mo./Parkway North) each claimed thirteenth place finishes in the 3000 meters and the 800 meters, respectively. David Wells jumped 6.20 meters which was good for an eighteenth place finish in the long jump. Rounding out the men's finishers were Ben Fish (Oskaloosa, Iowa) and Kevin Schwalje (Rolla, Mo.), who finished twentieth and twenty-first in the 400 meters. The Miners are off this weekend but will face Central Missouri State on February 10th in a dual meet.

Record-Setting Niners "Bolt" to Fifth SuperBowl Victory

Chris Reiter
Staff Writer

It was "SuperBowl Sunday" everywhere according to the introduction of the big game. The SuperBowl was broadcast to 174 different Countries on Sunday and even Hank Williams Jr. showed up to sing his NFL song. You know the one, "Are you ready for some football..." With the NFC winning the last ten straight SuperBowls, San Francisco was the clear favorite over San Diego. In fact, the local line was giving 19.5 points to the Chargers, but he isn't all there either.

There were a lot of questions to be answered by this game. Could the AFC end the skid? Could the Chargers complete their dream season? Could Steve Young make his mark as the best quarterback in Forty-Niners history and escape the Joe Montana ghost of the past? By the end of the game, it was No, No, Yes. San Francisco broke or tied six SuperBowl records, including most touchdown passes in a game, six, by Steve Young. San Fran runningback Ricky "Running" Watters and wideout Jerry Rice both tied the record for most touchdowns in a game with three on Sunday night. San Diego had a few record breakers of their own, too bad they were on the receiving end of the records. The bright spot for the Chargers was a 98-yard kickoff return for a touchdown which tied a record set

Hicks Claims Knowledge In College Basketball

David Hicks
Staff Writer

Well, alot of things have happened since last time and hopefully I can catch you up on it all.

First of all the biggest surprise is Duke has plummeted out of sight and when I say plummeted I'm being generous. They started in the top 10 and are now scraping the bottom with no coach and no go-to player like a Grant Hill. Coach K has decided to set out the rest of the season and it looks like his team has to. This is the he first time since 1986 that Duke hasn't been in the ranks. They lost 6 in a row which is the most in 56 years. Well, to all you Duke fans out there look forward to next season. Young, energetic, and experienced, maybe not really experienced but with three freshman starting this year anything after this year will be experienced.

Surprise #2-Arkansas a good team that can be beat. They've lost four and will lose a couple more most likely but come tournament time look for Corliss Williamson to take over and lead the Hogs to the Final Four.

And here is an overview of what's gone on as of late. UMass with only one loss remains #1 after escaping West Virginia 97-94 in OT.

North Carolina is still hanging around with one loss also but they play Duke on Thursday-oh never mind. Kentucky lost a heart-breaker to Arkansas on a Scotty Thurman jumper with 11 seconds left. Wait a minute deja vu or what? (Duke-Arkansas in Finals last season). UConn. suffered their first loss of the season on Saturday in Kansas City against Kansas. Hey all you Big 8 fans Missouri is making a showing and will make its bid for the Big 8 title. And look who else is up there-Iowa State with only two losses and my Big 8 favorite Oklahoma Sooners led by Ryan Minor who is in turn leads the Big 8 in scoring. Look for him to be a candidate for All-American this season or next.

Here's my Top 22:

1. UMass (15-1)
2. Kansas (15-2)
3. North Carolina (16-1)
4. UConn (15-1)
5. UCLA (12-2)
6. Kentucky (13-3)
7. Syracuse (15-2)
8. Maryland (16-3)
9. Iowa St (17-2)
10. Arkansas (16-4)
11. Michigan St (14-2)
12. Georgetown (14-3)
13. Arizona (15-4)
14. Arizona St (14-5)
15. Virginia (12-5)
16. Wake Forest (12-4)
17. Missouri (14-3)
18. Stanford (13-3)
19. Alabama (14-4)
20. Oklahoma (15-4)
21. Oregon (12-4)
22. Villanova (13-5)

Swimmers Drown the Competition

Kirk Jordan
Staff Writer

The University of Missouri-Rolla's men's swimming team continued to dominate its competition this weekend at the Washington University Invitational in St. Louis. The Miners, who finished with 822 points and brought a 6-1 dual meet record into the Invitational, soundly defeated their nearest rival Washington University by 143.5 points. The Miners were led by Bill Unzicker (Decatur, Ill.), who finished first in the individual standings ahead of teammate Dikan Rendic (Split, Croatia). Unzicker's strong performance included first place finishes in the 200 yard butterfly, 1650 yard freestyle, and the 400 yard individual medley with times of 2:01.78, 17:28.17, and 4:11.91, respectively.

Rendic won both the 100 yard freestyle (47.86) and the 100 yard butterfly (51.97). He also finished second in the 500 yard freestyle .18 seconds behind Omar Ahead of Washington University. Eric Jelinek (Bartlesville, Okla.) contributed a first place finish in the 100 yard backstroke (55.87) and a second place finish in the 200 yard backstroke. Tyler Christensen (Rolla, MO) took second in the 200 yard backstroke. Peter Baumstark (Chattanooga, Tenn.) and Brandt Modlin (Greencastle, Ind.) contributed third place in the 200 yard backstroke and the 200 yard butterfly. The Miners received an outstanding showing from their relay teams which finished first in the 200 yard medley relay (1:40.07) and the 400 yard medley relay (3:41.08). The other relay teams finished second in the 800 yard freestyle relay and third in the 400 yard freestyle relay. Next up for the Miners is UMSL on Saturday, February 4th at home.

The Life and Times... What's in a Name?

Somewhere in the middle of the great literary work known as "Romeo and Juliet," Romeo pines over his being forbidden from marrying his love simply because she is of the Capulet household with whom his Montegiuoux family has an ongoing feud. In his heartbreaking pain, he sums up the irony of the situation by saying that "A rose by any other name would still smell as sweet." (For all of you faithful followers of good ol' Bill Shakespeare, please forgive the fact that I seem to have misplaced my Poetry-English dictionary this week and am probably rather destroying that beautiful quote. My apologies to all.) Anyway, this pained statement by our favorite yet most tragic hero brings to mind yet again: what really is in a name?

I mean, let's think about this for a moment, shall we? There are some awfully, um, unusual names out there for just about everything from cereal boxes to speakers of the house (not, of course, that I have anything personal against our beloved speaker; I just shudder to think what would happen if a witch happened to wander by the Capitol and was short an eye of something or another for a recipe and heard his name being announced. That's all.) Starting with sports teams, could anyone tell me exactly what a Cleveland Brown is?? Or how about a Met, or why on earth anyone would name a team of the toughest, most toothless athletes in the world "The Mighty Ducks?" Then, we have television shows such as the new sitcom "The Platypus Man," and the old standby, "Alf." Of course, I also believe the entire music industry has become a victim of this bizarre trend, with songs named "Chattahoochee," and "Third Rock from the Sun." (One of my particular favorites, though, my pal Sting, pretty much takes the cake with his titles, ranging from "Dream of the Blue Turtles," to "St. Augustine in Hell." I don't question these things anymore.) And the music groups aren't much better themselves, with names like Blind Melon, Smashing Pumpkins, and Screaming Trees. Even we here at our beloved institution of higher education -- yes, I did say institution... does that tell you anything? -- have our own set of names for classes and professors and such, like Mickey Mat and Diffy Screw. (I'm going to plead the Fifth here and not mention any prof nicknames... folks, I've got a g.p.a. to worry about, too, you know.)

But even with all of these being as somewhat astounding as they are, the mind does not become completely boggled until it begins to ponder by just how many names and titles we ourselves go by. For instance, these include, but are not limited, to the following: first names, last names, names called by the professor during roll (which usually are not recognizable anyway), nicknames, email names, student numbers, PIN numbers, Career Center numbers; and then titles such as sister, brother, daughter, son, mother, father, aunt, uncle, niece, nephew, student, engineer, tutor, professional, caretaker, boyfriend, girlfriend, worker, and (of course, my two favorites) writer and editor. It's flabbergasting (my nifty word of the week), really, by just how many distinct designations we will answer when called.

But, even deeper than this is the fact that in almost every name by which we are known, we will act differently. I mean, you know you don't talk the same when called son as you do when you're currently being known as boyfriend. And as a student, you won't speak the same as you do when your title is friend/pal/buddy. It is no wonder, then, that the majority of the universe is exceptionally confused and a great many self-help tapes dealing with the subject of self-esteem have been sold: of course, they've been sold! We have to buy one every time we assume a new identity!!

Sigh. This is all very perplexing and worth far more pondering and philosophizing than any of us have time for right now. So, in the meantime, start wearing name tags everywhere you go simply to remind yourself who you are at that exact moment (or when you come out of your coma on Sunday morning), and the whole world will thank you.

Ask Me Anything, the column that answers all your questions

Greetings and salutations readers!

I hope all is still going well for you this semester. So far I can't complain. Why is it that the weeks seem to just slip by? I mean, it seems like just about the time I get my list of things to do for the week, I should have done about 4 of them already. But, such is life at UMR. However, you don't want to hear my ramblings as each of you have your own personal hell to deal with...

By the way, thanks to those of you who stuck with my article last week - and the compliments you gave me (my doctor will be happy to hear that something good happened to me).

So, I'm sitting here wondering what I should write about - trying to find that happy medium. You know, the one where I write about something I like and something I think you might like to read about.

Have you ever wondered what happens to the little electronic pulses of your phone calls, e-mail, or fax? You know, you push the button or key for "send" and the crt or lcd says you sent it, and YET the person or persons tell you they never got the message, fax, or e-mail. What happens? Where do these pulses go? Do they just wander aimlessly around the fiber-optic web, or do they pop up somewhere else at some other time screwing up someone else's electronic pulses? I'm not going to delve into the complicated tangle that this could become - that's work for another writer on this staff...

I am getting to the topic of the day. In fact, I'll do it now...

Driving and seeing the country - that's the topic. I'm not talking about the road-tripping that occurs when, on the spur of the moment, you and your friends decide to go to St. Louis (on a school night, nonetheless) for White Castles or some other thing. I would, however, recommend at least one trip like that per semester. Today, though, the topic centers around the kind of trip that requires a checklist before you get started. I'm talking about taking yourself and your car out for a drive with the final destination as your only destination - no care as to how you get there, just as long as you do.

There are a few things to keep in mind when planning such a trip - some are subjective and some aren't. You should pick a place that will have interesting scenery along the way - or at least have cool stuff at the destination. Some suggestions would be: anywhere out West (some places are better than others; it just depends on the person), the Great Lakes, or Big Bend National Park. This is the most essential portion of the driving, as it's what you're working for. Another major component is great music - this is going to be a trip of a life-time so you might as well enjoy it. The type of music depends largely on the area being visited. For instance, when driving through western Kansas, John Barry's score to Dances With Wolves is excellent (it gets you in the big prairie mood). I would not recommend that you rely solely on the radio signals being sent out in different parts of the country for your listening enjoyment. This reminds me of a humorous aside - when you're out in the real boonies (and you'll know when you are) - the phrase goes, "We've got both kinds of music - Country and West-

The World According to Rolla

Wilma and Betty

(Today, after being severely hungover from an extremely late last night, we have traded in our "Grotto Groupie" title for a more appropriate one, "Java Junkie" - one who hangs out at the new coffee joint in town, Java & Cream.)

Yes, it is time for another spine-tingling episode of...

ROLLAMO 65401.

Today's show takes place at the gang's favorite hangout, Java & Cream, or Java The Hut to some. Does this scenario seem familiar? It should, for it is everyday life at good ol' UMR.

For example, how come when you start thinking, yes thinking, about dating someone, everyone automatically says, "Oh well, Fred and Wilma are seeing each other! Did you hear that?" Ahha!! The infamous Rumor Mill has begun, and this just pisses us off.

Why are people on this campus so obsessed with everyone else's personal life? Could it be attributed to their anal retentiveness associated with obtaining an engineering degree? Or that Seinfeld is a rerun this week, and there is nothing better to do but gossip? Or that they aren't getting any, so they must talk about those who are? (Can we say that? We just did.)

Gee, we thought we left high school 5 years ago. Obviously, we were incorrect. UMR is just a big, old, crappy, dilapidated high school. Well, another explanation for all this gossip (at least what we've come up with) could be due to "Days of Our Lives" or "Gay Days" as we call it. We mean, what the hell is up with Satan/Marlina? If NBC needs writers, then here we are.

OK, enough about tardacious (new word) soaps and on to our subject. What is our subject? Oh yeah, gossip. And what is up with the fascination with the whole unlikely couple scene? OK, so maybe it is interesting or different, but so what? Get over it, you small, closed-minded rejects. Did you ever take Physics? Opposites attract. Look at Michael and Lisa Marie or Rod and Rachel.

Hey, we want to get on another subject, SHACKING. Yes, we've all done it, and probably more than once, and with a variety of different people at various locations. Our Webster's word for the week is S-H-A-C-K-I-N-G: the art of not staying in your own bed and somehow the next morning (or afternoon if it was a really good shack), sneaking home so as few people as possible see you sauntering the "Walk of Shame" with your bed-head hair from hell, and the same smoke-infested, beer-smelling, wrinkled clothes as the night before.

When we were freshmen, all we wanted to do was shack, and collect fraternity grecks. (Is that a song?) You know, living in the dorm, away from Mommy and Daddy for the first time, you've got to sow some wild oats. Trust us we've planted crops all over this town.

The perfect, we mean A#1, 100%, terrific, better-than-chocolate shack is one in which the next morning the person you shacked with has curled himself/herself perfectly to you, and when he/she wakes up he/she actually knows your name! Another good sign is that this person will get up and get you that glass of water you are dying for and would give about a million dollars for at this point. This person also helps you find all of your discarded clothes that lay strewn all over the room, kind of like a tornado tore off your clothes the previous night. But the best sign of an excellent shack is that this person takes you home so you don't have to call a friend to pick you up from that unknown location, and you don't have to walk home either.

You know, we were once watching "Oprah" or "Montel" or "Maury" or some other stupid talk show, killing some time before something actually good came on television, and they had these people on there that wanted to be reunited with one-nighters that they had had. Hello, McFly? Yoo-hoo!! Why do you think they call it a one-nighter? Because it was one night, that's it. No

on my own

Looking for something other than beer? Something for after dinner or the theater? Well, necessity being the mother of all invention, Rolla, the thriving mecca of activity that it is, is pleased to acquire its newest culturally stimulating (and just downright pleasin') polestar -- the "Java and Cream" coffee house!

Proprietor Mike Chism welcomes all to come and visit. Located at 205 West 11th Street (that's caddywhompus to the Uptown theater), Mike insists that he services a very broad range of clients. "My clientele varies from high school kids to little old ladies for afternoon tea," and everything in between. Mike feels that he isn't restricted to campus, but the major habitue will be college kids looking for a retreat or just a place to call home.

The flavor of a coffee is very regional. Just as you can line up twelve different glasses of wine and taste the distinctiveness, you can do the same test with coffee. Different parts of the world, different growing soils, different amounts of rainfall, different ambient temperatures... are all part of the dynamics that lead to a coffee bean's palatable flavor and aroma.

To supplement their beverages,

Java and Cream also offers a soup and sandwich menu (menu can accommodate vegetarians) and homemade pastries.

But what may prove to be the most invigorating (besides the caffeine) aspect of the coffee house is Chism's willingness to explore the philosophical and artisan side of human nature. When the weather behaves, Java and Cream will have a courtyard with professional entertainment and open microphone nights. Mike expects poetry, reading, stand-up comedy, short stories, music and impromptu addresses to unexpected crowds. As for the reading pabulum, Mike plans to add plenty of out-of-town newspapers (well, the Miner, also) and other reading materials for diversity.

Rolla Review

I hope Rolla is treating all of you well so far this semester. This week I would like to review two movies in the theaters, Little Women and Streetfighter, and one that is out on video, Maverick.

Little Women

Rating PG

Running time: 1 hr. 50 min.

This is a wonderful adaptation of the well-known novel. Contrary to the title, I believe even you guys out there might like this one if you're dragged to it by your girlfriend. The movie is set in New England during the Civil War. It tells the story of four sisters as they grow up together. It begins on Christmas Eve with their father away fighting in the war. Although this movie starts on a sad note, it takes you on a roller coaster ride of emotions. Little Women incorporates joys, sorrows, births, deaths, love, and laughter to make a very interesting and enjoyable movie. Starring Christian Bale, Winona Ryder, and Susan Sarandon.

Streetfighter

Rating PG-13

Running time: 1 hr. 42 min.

The only good thing that can be said about this movie is that it is action-packed. Jean Claude van Damme and Raul Julia star in this adaptation of a popular video game. There really isn't a worthy plot, it is fairly predictable, and all they do is run around shooting at each other. I guess I shouldn't be surprised considering that is exactly what the video game is. I suppose if action is the main thing you want to see in a movie, then this would be the one for you!

ON VIDEO:

Maverick

Rating PG

Running time: 2 hr. 7 min.

Category: Action Western

This is a marvelous, suspenseful movie all around with a superb mix of action and romance. It is set in the Old West with excellent scenery and beautiful costumes. This is the typical western where the good guy wins, but it involves countless funny little sayings that makes it enjoyable through and through. Starring Mel Gibson, Jodie Foster, and James Garner, along with a guest appearance by Clint Black in the riverboat gambling scene.

The Curator's Corner

Welcome to a new year and a continuation of the Curator's Corner. The semester is now well underway and the Board of Curators have been busy in the first month of 1995. Last week the full Board met at the University of Missouri-St. Louis for a two-day meeting, with a topic of particular interest to all students. With over 100 students in attendance, discussion centered around tuition increases.

According to the University's five-year plan, tuition is to increase at the rate of inflation, which is determined by the Higher Education Price Index, plus $200 over five years. Currently, we are in the fourth year of the five-year plan and can expect tuition to increase for the 1996-97 year too.

These increases in tuition that were passed will assist in generating funds used to pay competitive faculty salaries, increase and improve library resources, replace equipment, repair and maintain existing buildings and finally, increase student financial aid. This issue was not taken lightly by me or other University of Missouri students, with over 15 students representing the Rolla campus at the Thursday meeting. UMR Student Council President Andrew Sears, presented to the Board an alternative plan to raising tuition below the expected 9.9% increase. Although the Curators listened attentively to Sears' as well as two other students' arguments, the Board passed the increases on tuition after a two-hour discussion with a vote of 8-1.

Curator Mary Gillespie of St. Louis was the sole vote in opposition to the increase. Although the other Curators did not follow Gillespie's vote, many complimented the hard work and efforts of all the students who gave presentations and who traveled to the meeting. The students illustrated their opposition just by their presence. I feel their efforts left a great impression on this Board and will be a reminder as the Curators continue to review tuition increases for the next five years.

Although we may not see the results of this effort in a dollar amount in the next couple of years, we can already see the strength that lies in collaborating efforts from all four of the campuses. The classes ahead of us will have us to thank for the continued cooperation among the schools in the battle against further increases.

I want to extend my appreciation for all the students who were in attendance at the meeting. It is encouraging to see that an interest to voice concerns lies in the student body of the University of Missouri System.

What's the next issue of concern for students? Well, the University will undertake a major program review. The purpose is to evaluate programs and identify areas for improvement. Those areas that fail to meet the University's goals and measure up to the high standards of quality will be under consideration to be discontinued.

Although the Board elected Curator Adam Fischer as the new Board President, he still holds a similar vision for the improvement and quality of the University Missouri System as did former President James McHugh.

I would be happy to answer any questions you might have concerning the Board. You can call me at 341-4280 or stop by Room 209 University Center West. You may also send your concern via e-mail to my attention at: stuco@umr.edu. Meet up next week at the Curator's Corner for the latest on YOU and the Board.

Respectfully Yours in Service,

Gayatri Bhatt

Theta Tau Omega

First the men of Theta Tau Omega would like to congratulate our new members. We would also like to remind students that are interested in joining Theta Tau that interviews are being held this Friday. Every year Theta Tau benefits both the student body and the Rolla community. As most of you know our annual Casino Night during St. Pat's is good wholesome fun for the students, and generates money throughout the town. Last year the men of Theta Tau gave in excess of $10,000 to area charities through various fund raising events. In order to reach our goal this semester we need good quality guys who have been at UMR a couple of years, have seen how things work, and are willing to work hard themselves. Theta Tau Omega is a perfect opportunity for students to meet members and leaders of other campus organizations. If you are interested in becoming a member of Theta Tau Omega contact Vance Buatte at 368-4816.

Respectfully,

by Miami.

The game was a blowout from the start. San Francisco even won the coin toss an elected to receive. Within the first four minutes, the Niners were ahead 14-0. The Chargers showed somewhat of a challenge when they drove eighty yards for a score cutting the lead to 14-7, but when your opponent scores four times in five possessions, it's hard to win. At the half, the Niners lead 28-10 and it was apparent that the game was over. The largest deficit overcome in a SuperBowl was ten points and the Chargers didn't have it in them on Sunday.

San Francisco put on the finishing touches by the end of the third quarter, allowing most of the starters to celebrate on the sidelines. San Diego scored late in the game to save face, but it wasn't enough. The final score was 49-26 (that's a 23 point difference in case anyone was wondering covering the spread easily). Steve Young was the game's Most Valuable Player edging Jerry Rice. I thought both could have shared the award but somebody felt sorry for Young. With the MVP award, Young can say he's on the same pedestal as Joe "washed-up" Montana, if not higher. Note to Kansas City... You need a quarterback next season so start looking now. Joe has already had his share of the glory!

SuperBowl XXIX was San Fran's fifth NFL Championship putting them at the top of the list for SuperBowl victories and for great franchise teams. It's hard to say who will win it all next year with all the free agents, salary caps, and trades that go on during the off-season, but hey, when in doubt... Go Dallas!!

P.S. Watch out for the St. Louis Rams to make a bid for their first SuperBowl victory.

will win the cup with an asterik by it. My five picks who have the best chance to win the Stanley Cup are:

Boston Bruins - Cam Neely is the man; will their rookie goaltender sustain the pressure?

St. Louis Blues - They are finally solid all around Cup contenders.

Philadelphia Flyers - Lindros could carry them to the promise land.

New York Rangers - Messier sill leads the team!

Montreal Canadiens - Never count out a team that has a goaltender named Patrick Roy.

Real Astrology for an Unreal World

ARIES (MAR. 21-APR. 19): I was surprised to learn that more Aries actors have won Oscars than any other sign. I'd have thought that theatrical Leos or chameleonic Cancerians would have garnered the most. But no, Aries dynamos like Emma Thompson, Joan Crawford, Bette Davis, Marlon Brando, and Spencer Tracy have lead the pack.

But I shouldn't overgeneralize. I'm not trying to imply ALL Aries have Oscar-winning abilities. Except now, that is. A good 85 percent of you are actually primed to mesmerize, enchant, and even electrify your audiences.

TAURUS (APR. 20-MAY 20): If you'll send me your resume, I'll lobby to get you an honorary PhD from my alma mater, Duke University. Then I'll try to see to it that you're awarded an honorary Bachelor of Hamburgerology from McDonald's Hamburger University. I'll also nominate you for one of those MacArthur Fellowship "genius" grants, and use my connections to get you mentioned in Liz Smith's gossip column. In short, my esteemed friend, I'll do all I can to boost your reputation and elevate your status during this astrologically favorable time for such things. If none of my efforts pan out, I can always just drop flattering hints about you in the horoscopes for all other signs.

GEMINI (MAY 21-JUNE 20): Underdogs are on an upsurge. Topdogs are on a downswing. The rebels have God on their side. The masters merely have money and spin doctors. It'll be an excellent week to launch strikes, boycotts, and protests. It'll be prime time to say, "Hell no, I won't go" or "Take this attitude and shove it" or even "No pueden aguar mas."

Are you going to sit there passively and grin as some feel-good tyrant tries to break off a chunk of your soul and hurl it into the Toilet Zone? No way! Don't just question authority--give it the third degree.

CANCER (JUNE 21-JULY 22): What'll it be, hero? A week of rampaging ids and slamming doors? Of weird smells and panoramic views of other people's hells?

Or will this be the week you finally sneak into the magic fortress and track down the secret formula? The week you finally outwit the two-headed dragon with the non-violent weapon you've been saving for just such an occasion?

It really is all up to you. Both scenarios are equally possible. Only you can decide which one's more interesting.

LEO (JULY 23-AUG. 22): Technically, this would be an excellent time to shuck all your responsibilities and plunge into a week-long bacchanalia, complete with greedy feasting and delirious dancing and lunatic laughter and erotic abandon and mind-altering emotions. Realistically, though, while such an interlude might do wonders for your relationship with yourself, it could dampen your relationships with people who rely on you. Unless of course you could coax them into joining you on your binge.

VIRGO (AUG. 23-SEPT. 22): Are you familiar with the Jungian shadow? It's the unflattering or uncomfortable part of you that you'd prefer to forget. It's the source of any behavior about which you say "I wasn't myself." Jungians feel that the shadow hounds you and hurts you to the degree that you refuse to acknowledge it. Negotiate with it, and it often leads you to unsung treasures.

I bring this up because I psychically sense that you'll soon have a dream about these themes. You'll dream that a groundhog emerges from hibernation and sees its own shadow. This will be a fabulous omen. It'll mean that you're about to welcome home a disowned part of your psyche, and that winter will not last more than six weeks.

LIBRA (SEPT. 23-OCT. 22): Gordon Michael Scallion is a famous Libran prophet. In his newsletter, he pontificates about earthquakes, new ice ages, mass testosterone poisoning, and other scary stuff. It's rumored that while he used to channel his visions by meditating, he recently switched to gazing into his computer screen.

Always trying to keep abreast of the trends in my field, I used Scallion's technique to obtain a few prophecies.

Here they are. Aliens will invade the Internet. The fabled continent of Atlantis will rise from the sea off the coast of Long Island. A single lesbian mother with a high IQ will become CEO of a major corporation. But Librans everywhere will hardly notice any of these startling developments because they'll be crazier with love than they've been in many moons.

SCORPIO (OCT. 23-NOV. 21): What would your best mother do in a situation like this? Notice I didn't ask "What would your mother do?" I'm not suggesting you call on the commonsense worrying of your actual biological mother.

Your "best mother" is a wiser older woman who understands you telepathically and wants to inspire you to live your life according to your own inner necessity, not hers. If there's no such a person in your life, find one, or at least create one in your dreams. You need her nourishing feminine wiles now.

SAGITTARIUS (NOV. 22-DEC. 21): Wild orchids resemble living jewels. Valued by collectors for their exotic beauty, some sell for $2,000. High demand has now led to a thriving black market. No doubt there are more Sagittarians in the orchid smuggling rings than any other sign. You centaurs love any kind of adventure that involves bootlegging untamed beauty--especially now, with jovial Jupiter in your House of Style, fiery Mars in your House of Thrills, and the sun in your House of Experiments.

Just one piece of advice. Whether you're an orchid smuggler or a love pirate, be as scrupulous as you can. As Eddie Vedder says (or was it Bob Dylan?), "To live outside the law you must be honest."

CAPRICORN (DEC. 22-JAN 19): Don't bitch just because your guardian angel seems to be driving hard bargains lately. You're actually on better speaking terms now than you've been in some time. Before the sweeter talk can begin, though, the two of you still have to work out kinks left over from previous miscommunications.

Besides, there's method in your guardian angel's madness: she's testing you to see if you're willing to stretch your imagination to fit the big, fat blessings you'll soon be tempted with.

AQUARIUS (JAN. 20-FEB. 18): I thought of sending you a blue velvet and red patent leather something-or-other for your birthday, but decided to go with more practical gifts. Here's what I promise you during the rest of 1995: one relatively painless reality check every four weeks (except in July)...a bouncy new muse who's nowhere near as moody as your last one...a greater tolerance by your bed partners for your urges to eat crackers under the covers...the horsensense of Goldilocks, who never wanted too ern." So please be sure to take along plenty of music you can listen to.

As I said before, you've got to get the car checked out - repair bills on the road are always worse than here in good ol' Rolla (if you can believe that). Also, don't forget to take your camera or other recording instruments so the whole event can be documented. I once made the mistake of taking a trip to Mt. Rushmore (this is the basis for a story in itself) without my camera (I've not done that since).

Just a couple more things. Don't take the main highway all the time - sometimes the best scenery and sights are off the beaten path. Take a good pair of hiking boots or shoes. You'll want to get out and walk around and see all that you can. One of the most important things I can tell you is to take your time - see the sights. Look around while driving, - don't get distracted - just take it all in.

Your traveling companion is probably the most important part of the whole trip. It all depends on your personality - do you want to talk all the time, have complete silence, or some semblance thereof. I'm not saying you should be like me - that is a scary thought - but I choose to go by myself or with my friend Erik (either way, there's no talking in the car and that's the way we like it).

So, why did I spend all this time talking to you about this??? Well, I wanted for you to see one recipe for good, clear thinking. It's amazing how quickly things become clear - all you need to do is get away and focus on things other than school, or work, or school and work. It's amazing how insignificant problems become when you're driving through the Rocky Mountains. Things tend to get put into perspective. Just keep that in mind at the end of the semester when you haven't gotten a job offer and there's a million and a half projects all due yesterday ...

Next week, I'll have something a little more in tune with the title of my article. I also promise to stop the philosophizing/ expounding for a while - I'm sure you're starting to tire of it all.

I am still open to suggestions, so just drop me a line (janson@umr.edu), and I'll see what I can do.
